Nine cars and 15 members make the end-of-season scene at Beaches

Most of us were grateful for sweaters or jackets, but we enjoyed our position as host club for the [nearly] last Wednesday of the Beaches-PIR season.

Beaches had already moved the finish line once – deciding that, due to the takeover of Indy cars during the summer, the season should be extended beyond the end of September. While we were there, the Beaches crew revealed there would be yet another “last day” on Wednesday, October 9.

As usual, we invited non-club Plymouths to join us under the trees, and as usual we talked to many people who have Plymouths either running, about to run, or in pieces, who could use the networking, support, and fellowship of a dedicated Plymouth club. As usual, we handed out membership materials, and we’ll see if anybody responds.

Given the marginal weather forecast and the lateness of the date, attendance wasn’t spectacular, but nonetheless, cars were lined up to the golf course and back before the 3:00PM opening,

Hear about Steve Austin’s Great Vacations at Oct. 22 meeting

Steve Austin, International Car Tour Expert is a resident of Colton, Oregon.

Catching him between trips, we’ll hear him share his knowledge of the events, the history, the racing celebrities and events.

Steve has been around and knows everybody, and he designs each tour to offer travelers highlight moments impossible for them to arrange on their own.

Steve says, “Forty-four years in Nominating committee report: one position remaining to fill

CPCC’s nominating committee reports that they have a candidate for club president for the 2020-2022 term. Phil Lapin has agreed to serve if elected. The vice-president’s position remains to be filled. The current treasurer, secretary, and member at large are willing to serve again. Joanne Dixon and Randy Ealy have been serving on the nominating committee this year.

the tour business has allowed me the envious opportunity to ‘choose’ special tour programs that, quite frankly, I get a kick out of doing.”

The Steering Column, A Message from the President

I hope you have the Annual Membership Meeting and Potluck, coming up in November 18th on your calendars. This a week earlier, so hopefully more of you will be able to attend. This is a fun time and good way to start the holiday season, sharing good food and company. There are many of you we haven't seen all year and hope you can make the time to come, so we can catch up with you.

This November marks the 19th anniversary for the Plymouth Club. This is a time we should reflect on all of the things we have accomplished as a club. For some, it may be the relationships and activities you have experienced as a member. Certainly we have accomplished many first's as a club, which would not have happened without the dedication of the CPPC Board of Directors over the years. While some car clubs see their membership shrink, ours seems to stay constant, which tells me we are maybe doing something right.

As we begin our 20th year, I hope each you can find something you can

A note from Randy Ealy

Cascade Pacific Plymouth Club,

I would like to take this time to thank all of the Board members that have helped me over the last several years as your club Vice President, President, Chairman of the Board and car show co-chair. At our November meeting you will elect the next Board to lead our club into exciting times. Over the years we have seen growth in our membership and our commitment to the Clackamas Community College Automotive Department. It is my hope to see more of our members take leadership roles and make this a positive experience for all.

Again, thanks to all for making my time on the board a very positive part of my life. Let the good times roll.

Randy Ealy

Chairman of the Board

contribute, commit to attending more meetings, participate in club regular activities and contribute our two major fundraisers; the Portland Swap Meet and Down by the Riverside Cruise-In. Soon it will be time to prepare for each of these activities.

2020 Officer Nominations, are going well and will be announced in the October CPPC newsletter. Randy Ealy, Nominations Chair has most positions filled. Thanks, to those members who have made the commitment to help guide the club going forward.

It might be a little early, but I would like to start my thank yous to the CPPC Board and extended members of the CPPC, that have served with me the past two years. First, I would like to thank Randy Ealy, our outgoing Chair of the Board, for all the time that he has dedicated to the club. His contribution to the Board will be missed, but I know he will not be too far away and continue to find ways to be involved in the business of the Board.

There is not enough room to individually thank all the rest of the CPPC Board in the Steering Column.

Thank you one and all, Phil Lapin, Jim Wheat, Dolores Call, Joanne Dixon, Jerry Dixon and Gary Rusher. I thank each one of you for the many hours of time each month, meetings, lunches, activities, sometimes at a personal cost;

Summer winds down, but weekends are full with activities for the old car hobby

Here's a partial list of Tours CPPC's Board of Directors has planned for 2019. The full calendar is on CascadePacificPlymouth.org. As always, we announce tours here, on the website, and by email blast in advance of the date. This year we are inviting Studebaker Drivers Club-NW to all of our official functions (the ones that are underlined). If you're available to host one of these events, please let a board member know, and we'll walk you through the steps to hosting a user-friendly event.

OFF THE HOOK -

By Phil Lapin

Technical Committee and Vice President

In May of 2018, I wrote an article on DIY Car Painting. That was a broad overview of the whole process.

I have had inquiries asking for more detailed information on just exactly what is involved in using specific paint products. This month we will look at that issue.

First – my qualifier – I am not a paint expert, but I have done considerable homework on this issue. There is a completely confusing array of paint products available, each with extensive data sheets. I waded through much of that, and made simple charts that I taped on my garage door to guide me in what can sometimes be a stressful

A 1958 Plymouth dream wagon that didn't make it into production

When Virgil Exner was Vice President of Design at Chrysler Corporation, he partnered extensively with Ghia in Italy to build a series of "dream cars" to test styling concepts on the public.

Most often, Ghia supplied running, driving cars based on Plymouth (or other Mopar) platforms. Many of those cars are famous on their own.

The 1958 Plymouth Cabana, pictured below, isn't as well-known. It never progressed beyond the non-running prototype stage, and most of the surviving comments are about the all-glass roof over the cargo area. It follows the 1950s fascination with glass canopies without much regard for the greenhouse effect the glass would provide..

process. These charts are summed up in this month's column. If you would like a file with the actual charts, just send me an Email.

I used PPG Corporation's OMNI paint products – widely available and very decent. Not the cheapest, and not the most expensive. For the clear coat, I used High Tech Brand's "High Solids Clear Coat". I first went down to bare metal, and put a rust blocker/sealer from SEM on the metal to neutralize rust in pits.

STEP 1 EPOXY PRIMER

Sand surfaces before using (120-180 on bare metal, 220-320 on old finishes or primer)

MIX RATIO: 2 PARTS MP EPOXY TO 1 PART CATALYST (can add up to 10% acetone)

Gun use: 1.3 – 1.6 nozzle

Apply 1-2 Coats

Dry Time: 1 coat about 15 MIN @ 70 degrees, 2 coats 30 min

SPRAY REGULAR PRIMER WITHIN 72 HOURS (or epoxy must be sanded to rough it up)

STEP 2 REGULAR HIGH

BUILD PRIMER

MIX RATIO: 4 PARTS MP282 PRIMER + 1 PART MR185 REDUCER

Specific Steps on DIY Car Painting

(FAST) + 1 PART MH283 HARDENER (NORMAL TEMP)

Gun use: 1.6 - 1.8 nozzle

Apply 2-4 coats / 10 min between coats

Dry time: 3 hours to sand and topcoat (sand to 400 dry or 500 wet before basecoat)

(You can take a break now – there is no maximum time before putting base coat on!!!)

STEP 3 OMNI ACRYLIC

BASECOAT

MIX RATIO: 1 PART MBC BASECOAT + 1 PART MR REDUCER

Gun use : 1.3 – 1.5 nozzle

Apply 2 coats or until hiding – 5-10 minutes between coats

SPRAY CLEARCOAT 20 MINUTES MINIMUM TO 24 HOURS MAXIMUM

STEP 4 HIGH TECK Brand

GLAMOUR CLEARCOAT

MIX RATIO: 2 PARTS 77125 CLEAR + 1 PART 77152 ACTIVATOR (FAST)

Gun use: 1.4

Apply 2-3 wet coats then 10-15 minute flash, then final wet coat

(I had a lot of trouble with runs, both from gun technique and too soon between coats)

D. J. Freeman shares brochure from "Plymouth 4 & 6 Cylinder Owners Club"

By Robin Will

I got an email from CPPC member D. J. Freeman the other day. He sounded a little shook up.

He had been on the phone to his local auto parts store for something-or-other, and the young woman at the computer had checked a part number and said, "1938 PLYE-MOUTH." Two words.

D.J.: I said, "That's correct but it's Plymouth. You do remember Plymouth cars?" She said, (This is the heart breaker.) "No, I was only born in 1989." I tried to jog her memory of those great cars, "They were making them up until 2001." (Oh Good Grief, that would make her 12 years old.) Now I feel so old.

I could sympathize. I had recently explained The Carburetor to a twenty-something friend who wondered why they put knobs that said "CHOKE" on the dashboards of old cars. He had never driven anything that wasn't fuel-injected.

That led to some back-and-forth about the "good old days" (notice that I'm putting that in quotes) when it took a certain knack to get a car started on a cold morning, what with temperamental carburetors and 6V batteries, and how everybody's car was just a bit different - I've got some "really old" credentials of my own.

And I had to share the story (stop me if you've heard this) about helping a kid with the arithmetic for liters-to-cubic-inches conversion to help him understand why my old station wagon with 440 cubic inches outran his tuner Honda.

Then D.J. started reminiscing about the Plymouth Owners Club when it was for 4- and 6-cylinder cars only, and wondered if I wanted a picture of the patch on his cap, which is kind of roundabout but which more-or-less explains what's on this page and why I love being newsletter editor. I'll get the rest of the old POC brochure up on the website.

Newsletter/web site: Robin Will announced the web site had approximately 760 hits this month with several from Canada, France and Germany. Popular items viewed included the Slant six engine swap, headlight lens worksheet and Steering Box Adjustment article.

Car Quiz: Question # 1. When was the first MOPAR trade name logo created? Answer: The Chrysler Motor Parts Corporation was created in 1929. Its leader in 1937, Nelson Farley, set up a marketing think tank, which came up with the trade name MoPar, taken from the words Motor and Parts. Before that, their logo was just a circle around the initials of Chrysler's four car brands. The marketing group had also created the 1937 Chrysler float, made with engine parts, in the national Shriner's convention. The float was pulled by a camel, named Mr. Mopar and led by a mechanical man, Accy (accessory), made by Vern Dupuis. Eleven years later, in 1948, Dupuis modified Accy to speak and move, renaming him Mr. Mopar (instead of the camel). A newer version of the robot later appears on television. There have been 10 versions of the MOPAR logo from '37 to the present circular rounded "M". Question # 2. What was the horse power rating of the '58 392 Hemi powered Chrysler 300D? Answer: the 380, which was a jump of 5 HP more than the '57 300C creating almost 1 HP per cubic inch of displacement. Question # 3. What year was the first all steel turret top automobile built? Answer: In 1935 Chevrolet sold the first car with an all steel top built by GM's Fisher Body. The process was developed by Budd Manufacturing.

Door prizes: Lucky winners were Bob Westphal, Stephanie Willis, Jerry Dixon, Yvonne Westphal, Tom Nachand, Linda Surmon, and Judie Byrnes. Randy Ealy was the lucky winner of the 50/50 drawing.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:20 p.m.
